Frensham is an outward-looking, forward-thinking boarding school for girls located in the Southern Highlands of NSW. Valuing its position as the largest boarding school for girls in Australia, Frensham offers students the best of both worlds: a spectacular learning and living environment and a rigorous approach to studies.

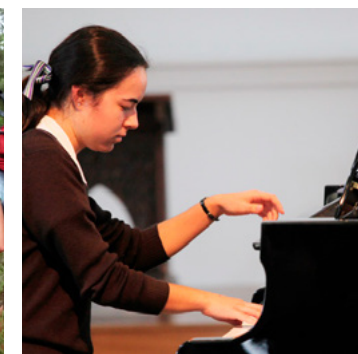

Frensham is a unique residential and community experience – for boarders who are 70% of the school, and for “day boarders” who are fully connected to House life but don’t sleep over. Located on 180 hectares, the beauty of the environment is protected and celebrated and the latest technology is designed to enhance teaching and learning. Fixed study times, a culture of mutual support and extended access to learning resources and teachers, facilitate an aspirational academic focus.

Frensham is fully involved in the Sydney-based Independent Girls’ Schools sporting and cultural fixtures, and has expansive sporting, performance and arts facilities.

With the knowledge that students rise to the intellectual life around them, Frensham creates a culture designed to inspire intellectual and emotional growth and maturity.
